Right-click and tap "Hide Row". Michelle Greenlee/Business Insider You can unlock the lines by clicking on one of the arrows that appear instead of the hidden line number. In this example, we are missing the line "Tom". The data reappears again. Related coverage from How To Do Everything: Tech: Michelle Greenlee/Business Insider Unlock the line by repeating the previous steps, then choose Hide Line from the menu. In this example, sellers are listed from the longest to the shortest time with the company. To reverse this condition, click the X on the right side of the filter information bar. If you use Google Sheets, hiding lines is one of the features that help you do so. Click the button (arrows) between two row or column headers. Spreadsheets can help you examine information in various configurations to consider different possibilities. When you're done displaying information with some of the hidden lines, it's easy to see them again. Open your Google Sheets file as you normally would. It's possible this is happening because there's a filter. Display your spreadsheet without seeing the information in those lines. From the menu, select Hide X-Y Lines, where X and Y represent the numbers of the first and last highlighted line. In the menu that appears above the selected line, tap the three vertical dots and choose "Hide Line". Hidden Lines on an Android is similar to an iPhone. You can also select multiple row or column headers that contain hidden data, then right-click and select Reveal Rows or Reveal Columns. You can hide lines in Google Sheets just as easily as in Microsoft Excel and it's a quick process on both a computer and a device
